Oct. 15, 2020 7:23 AM	Malwinder Malhi	Food Waste is biggest issue ..How can overcome it
Oct. 15, 2020 8:20 AM	Kiran Kokate	China now initiated Clean Your Plate campaign to avoid food waste . Better late than never !
Oct. 15, 2020 8:39 AM	Zhaotianyi Ma	Aha yes!Actually we have public speeches held in schools and special campaigns initiated in the my school canteen! The transformation should occur when supplying food in canteens and restaurants, cities in China has started to serve different size and portion of meals so the consumers can choose ones which will not turn into leftovers.
Oct. 15, 2020 9:03 AM	Kiran Kokate	This is required to avoid food waste !
Oct. 15, 2020 9:21 AM	Christiam Mendez	We are conducting an interesting investigation exploring logistical routines that avoid food waste
Oct. 15, 2020 9:40 AM	Kiran Kokate	Great 🙌 !
Oct. 15, 2020 10:29 AM	Amy Bettle	I think something the US struggles with is food labelling. The differences between USDA and FDA contribute to this along with food labelling being guided per state rather than federally. This is the reason there's so much confusion around "best by," "sell by," "expired," etc. that can contribute to food being thrown away prematurely. I learned this at a roundtable discussion hosted by FAO earlier this year!

Oct. 18, 2020 5:07 AM	Harshita Krupadana m	I actually wrote my paper on harvest loss prevention in India, to reduce food waste. It's mind boggling that 1/3 of food is wasted! A major issue that contributes to food waste is unpredictable rains in India, which are increasing due to climate change. I feel that we should focus on harvest loss prevention to save crops but also on mitigating climate change.
